MINING EMPLOYS 2100 MEN IN NEVADA COUNTY

Mining activity continues energetically along the same high level reported in the Nugget's February summary. Some of the large properties, notably the Lava Cap and the Idaho Maryland have increased their working forces. Beginnings have been made during the month in resuming work on older mines, notably the Federal Loan and St. Louis in Willow Valley. In this connection it is interesting to note the statement of A. W. Hoge in another column to the effect that the Great Northern plans development of its holdings adjacent to the Murchie holdings.

A report of the operative mining properties this month reveals a total of 2,154 miners and executives employed with a payroll that tops $300,000 per month.

SPENCEVILLE MINE

The P. G. & E. company has constructed a power line to the Spenceville mine connecting near the D. N. Jones residence to operate the gold cyanide plant at the old dump of the Spenceville mine, which is being re-opened by Sidney Woods and Louis Hinds. The excavation is completed for the mill and framing of timbers is underway. It is understood the old dump assays about $3 per ton in gold content. Sixteen men are employed.

QUEEN LIL MINE

The Queen Lil mill near Nevada City has run during the winter on custom ore and ore from the Buffington Brothers lease on which the mill is located. A test run of concentrates for the Salmon Mine near Tyler has just been completed.

BULLION MINE

Between 55 and 65 tons of ore per day are being mined at the Bullion mine and trucked to the 20-stamp mill at the Idaho-Maryland mine.

LAVA CAP MINE

Ore is being mined from all levels in the Central and Banner shafts of the Lava Cap mine southeast of Nevada City. The sinking from the 1,200 to the 1,400 level has been accomplished and a station is being cut. The mine is employing 140 men and 200 tons of ore is being milled per day in the 300 ton daily capacity mill. O. E. Schiffner is superintendent.

GERMAN BAR MINE

Operations at the German Bar mine have been delayed to some extent by heavy snow and rainfall. It is understood the property will be working full capacity within a short time. Several truck loads of big mine machinery and equipment were taken to the property late last fall. Thomas Stephens of Auburn is interested in the property.

GREEN MOUNTAIN PROPERTY

Charles and Norman Kistle, owners of the Green Mountain property which adjoins the Murchie mine on the east have cleaned out and retimbered the tunnel, which was blocked and caved, for a distance of 150 feet. Two men are employed and taking out of ore is to start in the next day or two. A five stamp mill will soon be installed on the property.

P. G. AND E. MAN IS DROWNED IN SPAULDING LAKE

Jens L. Jensen, 53, P. G. & E. company employee lost his life by falling into the lake at the Spaulding Dam of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., on Tuesday afternoon. It is thought he lost his footing in the snow at the top of the dam. He was carried through an outlet gate and tumbled 200 feet to the rough boulders below.

His body was discovered by Alva E. Bishop, a company employee. Coroner L. R. Jefford and Deputy Coroner Merritt Smith recovered the body with the assistance of P. G. & E. employees of Spaulding Camp. The men who helped to rescue the body and bring it by toboggan several miles to the funeral car were L. R. Landsburg, James Campbell, Leslie Swing, Clarence Swing and Alva E. Bishop.

MINER KILLED WHEN DRILL HITS MISSED HOLE

Harry William Welsh, who resided on Pine street near the suspension bridge in Nevada City, was killed at 12:10 yesterday morning when it is thought he drilled into a missed hole on the 800-foot level of the Banner mine of the Lava Cap.

Welsh was born March 5, 1903, in Columbus, Ohio, making him 32 years of age. He had resided in California eleven years and had worked at the Lava Cap mine about five months.

Left to mourn his untimely passing are a wife; two children, Evelyn, 9 years old, Walter, 7 years, of Nevada City; parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Welsh of Columbus, Ohio; a brother, Elmer Welsh, Columbus, Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Florence Embey, Columbus, Ohio; and Mrs. Helen Keller, Cleveland, Ohio.

The body lies at the W. R. Jefford and Son funeral home in Grass Valley with funeral arrangements awaiting word from relatives in the east.

SHERIFF TOBIASSEN CROWDED INTO DITCH BY RECKLESS DRIVER

While transferring Kimo Evanos, Hawaiian, adjudged mentally ill, from this city to the Stockton State hospital Wednesday, Sheriff Carl Tobiassen met an enforced accident. A youth driving recklessly crowded him off the Stockton boulevard, a few miles south of Sacramento into the ditch. One wheel was smashed and an axle broken. He was delayed three hours as result of the mishap.

Evanos formerly resided at Dog Bar on the Bear river and is reputed to have been the conductor, impresario and manager of the Kimo Royal Hawaiian orchestra which some years ago toured the United States. Of late months he has been afflicted with blindness. On top of this has come his mental deterioration, causing his removal to the Stockton hospital.

BANNER MT. POST

The Banner Mountain Post, V. F. W., rally and program held in Pythian Castle last evening was a most enjoyable event. Four candidates were initiated into the order after which a splendid program was rendered as follows: Ernest Carnes, violin solo; W. James, accordion solo; Herman Kreuger, of Grass Valley, vocal solo; and A. Abrams, of Grass Valley, accordion solo. Mrs. C. E. Bosworth was accompanied for the musical numbers. Decorated lunch boxes sold well for the box social that followed.

FEDERAL LOAN AND ST. LOUIS MINES LEASED

E. H. Syms and associates have taken a lease on the Federal Loan and St. Louis properties in the Willow Valley district north-east of Nevada City, which are owned by Mr. Weisbine and the G. H. Mellon estate of San Francisco and by W. B. Celio of Nevada City and E. J. Hennessy of Grass Valley and others, respectively. Five men are employed in mining operations there.

It is planned to start the mill Sunday. It will handle 80 tons of ore per day.

Mr. Syms, mining engineer, is superintendent of the property. Old workings consist of a 2,500 foot tunnel on the St. Louis and a 1,600-root shaft on the Federal Loan ground.

E. H. Syms is operating the Black Bear or Schroeder mine near Rough and Ready for the Cooley Butler interests. He is a resident of Nevada City. This is the first large project to get under way this year.

SCHOOL BOARD DISCUSSES NEW BUILDING PLANS

The Nevada City school board, meeting Monday evening, gave further discussion to building plans. The board has an application filed with the PWA director in San Francisco for $160,000 for a new grammar school building and an addition to the high school of a gymnasium, new class rooms and heating plant.

Reports received were that the schools would be given preferential consideration, if and when, the $4,800,000,000 PWA relief bill is adopted in Congress. Arrangements were made to ask the architects who have prepared Nevada City's preliminary school plans, to consult with the State School Planning board in Sacramento in order that plans may conform to the state regulations governing construction of school buildings. This was done in order that when funds do become available, there need be no delay from that cause in beginning work.

STORAGE LACK HAMPERS OMEGA

Operations at the Omega have been held up temporarily on the account of storage facilities, but the company is planning upon arrangements for active operations at an early date.

In the meantime, the ditch system is being maintained and everything kept in good shape for operations as soon as weather conditions are suitable to get started on the same.

Chamber of Commerce Elects Officers: S. F. Airmen To Fly Here

The Chamber of Commerce of Nevada City meeting Tuesday evening re-elected the officers and board of directors of the past year. They are as follows:

Directors—Judge Raglan Tuttle, E. M. Rector, R. J. Bennetts, W. E. Wright, E. W. Schrieber, George Calanan, W. W. Waggoner and executive officers.

President Fred F. Cassidy stated that he had served two years and now thought that the office of president should be given to some other member. A. W. Hoge and R. J. Bennetts, however, assured him that they had served three years each, so that a precedent had been established.

Fred E. Conner was placed in nomination, for the presidency but felt obliged to decline for business reasons, promising to take the office next year, provided the chamber members wished to confer that honor upon him then.

Following Conner's statement, Judge Raglan Tuttle moved that all the officers of the past year be re-elected, and this motion carried.

Ed. C. Uren of the airport committee reported that there had been no new development in regard to completing the Nevada City Airport. An application for $21,000 had been made to the PWA director for the purpose of putting six inches of broken rock saturated with oil and weed killer on the runways and the other necessary work. He stated he had received a questionaire regarding the airport which indicated that the aviation authorities were asking a higher standard than would be possible without the expenditure of a great deal more money.

R. J. Bennetts, chairman of the airport committee, stated that he was in receipt of a letter from the San Francisco Bay Airdome in which it was stated that an invitation sent by im to visit this city, had been accepted. It was indicated that a flight of this association of plane owners will be made to Nevada City Airport sometime this spring.

The arrival of these pilots in their planes is always an event of gala importance. On a recent flight to Oroville, the aviators were hospitably entertained by organizations and private individuals. The manager of the airdrome is R. U. St. John.

Judge Raglan Tuttle called attention to the importance of the bills now before the legislature relating to county roads. One bill backed by Governor Merriam and the State Board of Public Works calls for the surrender of all county roads to the state highway department. Judge Tuttle referred to some of the objections which have been made to this measure and also cited the bill offered by the northern section of the State Chamber of Commerce, which provides that counties may surrender all their roads to the state highway department on vote of the people and under conditions which safeguard road maintenance and construction.

A letter from the state supervisors association received by the Nevada City Nugget cites these objections to Governor Merriams bill, which would arbitrarily place county roads under the state highway administration:

1. That the proposal would not produce either economy or efficiency as claimed by the proponents.

2. That it would set up a potential political machine which could whip localities into line.

3. That it would destroy the fundamental democratic principle of local solution of local problems.

4. That it would disrupt the present successful plan of highway financing.

5. That it would revive sectional controversies which were ironed out when the present system was adopted.

6. That it would repudiate the mandate of the people with respect to meddling with the gasoline tax money.

Secretary W. H. Griffith was asked to communicate with the State Automobile Association and ask that highway signs at Auburn and at the junction of Tahoe-Ukiah highway with No. 40 near Emigrant Gap include the distances therefrom to Nevada City along with those of other cities.

NEV. CO. LUMBER COMPANY UNDER NEW MANAGER

Fred E. Conner, until early this week, secretary-manager of the Nevada County Lumber Company, has severed his relation with that organization. Oscar J. Odegaard, who resigns his position as manager of the Diamond Match Co. at Marysville on April 1, will succeed Conner in the management of the local lumber company. Mr. Odegaard has purchased an interest in the business.

Odegaard has resided in Marysville with his family for the past 14 years, and was formerly connected with the Shasta Lumber Company there. When the Diamond Match Company purchased the Shasta company, in 1926, Odegaard became the manager. He took an active part in all community activities of Marysville and for some time has been president of the Merchants association of that city. Mrs. Odegaard has also been prominent in relief and lodge work there. The family will not remove to Nevada City until the end of the school term. but Odegaard will take charge here on April 1.

The many friends of Fred E. Conner will be pleased to learn that he will continue to make his home in Nevada City and that he will engage in business here. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening, he declined a nomination to be president of the chamber, owing, he stated, to the press of business.

Willow Valley Mines Resuming Operation

Arthur W. Hoge of the Great Northern Gold Mines, Inc., states that the company is still operating its regular force and with very good results. He likewise states that the company has plans underway whereby it expects to materially increase their operations within the near future.

The company has plans underway for the development of its large Willow Valley group of properties which adjoin the Murchie holdings, and which is recognized as being one of the outstanding groups of properties in the Nevada City area, because its values have already been proven by numerous small shafts that have been sunk on the various operations in the early days and which is in the same formation and on the same contact and also in the same vein system as the Murchie group.

TRIAL SET FOR TWO CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

In their preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Walter Mobley yesterday afternoon Robert Householder and Jerry Healy, charged with assault and battery, pleaded not guilty, and their trial was set for 10 o'clock, March 25. The two men were arrested upon a charge of robbery and the complaining witness is Tony Wrthneik, who alleges the two robbed him of $60 while all were more or less under the influence of liquor. The charge was reduced, on request of District Attorney Vernon Stoll from robbery to assault and battery.

IDAHO MARYLAND FORCE NOW 525

A winze was sunk 50 feet on the bottom level of the New Brunswick shaft where an ore bin is being cut. Diamond drilling has been used to determine a program of future development.

Ore is being mined in several drifts in the old Brunswick shaft, but it is used for the most part as an air shaft and auxiliary exit. About 100 men are employed at the Brunswick mine making a force of 525 men for the Idaho Maryland properties. About 225 tons of ore and 75 tons of old mill tailings are being treated each day at the Idaho-Maryland since completion of the big mill. The circular shaft is down a little over 320 feet. Errol MacBoyle is general manager.

COUNTY BAR ASSN. MET MONDAY EVENING

A dinner meeting was held by the Nevada County Bar Association at the National Hotel Monday evening. Nearly all the members of the bar of the county were present. W. E. Wright, president, presided at the meeting. E. H. Armstrong performed the secretarial duties.

GOODBYE OLD FRIENDS

We refuse to take the fanatic view of a certain C. K. expressed in his "thinks" regarding prohibition and the downtrodden liquor dealer, about nudists and their antics, about communists and our peril therefrom, and about trees. But we do stand by many things this journalistic individualist says about trees and their preservation.

Thus, today we are pronouncing a eulogy over two magnificent poplars, part of the row which stands along Union Alley, that were alive and beginning to color with the promise of spring beauty and summer shade, on Monday, and are now dead.

We don't profess to know why these magnificent trees, that in the long, hot days of summer gave this little city an accent of splendor, were felled. We feel certain, however, that whoever ordered them cut down, did so without for a moment thinking that he was doing the people of Nevada City an irrepairable injury, even though they grew and took up ground space on private property. In a larger sense, quite past his or her understanding, the trees were an integral part of 3,500 lives. No service, commercial, or otherwise. that the author of their destruction can do, will compensate us, for their loss.

These Lombardy poplars are bequeathed to us. They belong to an old and graceful civilization. The Italian masters, in painting a portrait of their princes or saints, almost invariably incorporated a bit of charming Italian landscape in the background, a distant village, a vineyard, and through it, often a stately row of Lombardy poplars. These trees came to California among the first of the Argonauts. Long before the Australian eucalyptus crossed the Pacific, the Lombardy poplar, aristrocratic cousin of our cottonwoods, lifted its green spires in California. They are so content anywhere, so grateful for a little room in which to plant their roots, so generous in their gratitude, casting their long shadows across a humdrum world.

One cannot place a value on a human life, nor upon a tree. The service they do is manifold and universal. We lift up our eyes to the hills for strength, and to the trees for beauty.

Let us be glad that these two trees lived as long as they did. Let us guard as best we can the lives of other trees against the blindness of creatures that destroy them.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Word has been received that grave doubts are felt for the recovery of little Jean Faber, You Bet school child, who was stricken with infantile paralysis several days ago, and her little cousin and playmate, who also contracted the disease from her. The two little girls are in a Sacramento hospital. The You Bet school, south-east of Nevada City was closed and no new cases have appeared.

Dr. W. P. Sawyer is able to be in his office again after an illness of a week at his home.

Fred Searls, William Simkins, and Otto E. Schiffner spent Wednesday in Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ewing came down from the Alaska mine yesterday where they have spent the winter. They left for Salida near Modesto to visit with their daughter for a time.

Days To Be

The old house waits for the days to be,
Above its portals the roses twine,
There are hollyhocks and mignonette
And the whispering voices of tree and vine;
And often I linger about the place,
Under the blue of the star-gemmed dome,
For the spirits of hope and faith and love
Hallow the spot that has once been home.

They fashioned the old house long ago,
Firmly builded it was, and true
White curtains clung to its window panes
And winds of the west land wandering through:
And they who loved it and called it home—
A manly lad and his bonnie bride,
Planted each flowering shrub and vine
And tended its gardens with loving pride.

Children came to the dear home nest,
In these dim old gardens they used to play;
Laughing aloud at the wild bird's call,
Filling with music each sun bright day;
But changes came and the loved ones strayed
Into the world of toil and care,
Leaving the old house desolate,
Memory haunted and hallowed there.

The flowers awaken at spring's first kiss—
Yellow crocus and mignonette;
Roses that cling to the weathered walls,
Never their golden hearts forget;
And they seem to say as they smile and nod,
Climbing to life from the mellow loam,
"Some one, old house, in the days to be,
Will find you and love you and call you home.

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
by Graham Berry

(By WNU Service)

Shades of Edgar Allen Poe at Sacramento. Seated at his desk in "the corner room, downstairs," Governor Frank Finley Merriam listens. As he listens he hears strange sounds emanating from two large rooms in the wings of the Capitol building. He might well hum to himself as he listens, "Who's that rapping, always rapping, rapping all my bills?"

This question would not be easy to answer—in one sentence, for the administration has been getting raps from all sides during the opening days of this important session.

The first set-back the governor received was from the courts. After he had appointed Thomas M. Foley recently, claiming the legal right to appoint a successor to John P. Brennan as chairman of the state veterans' welfare board, Superior Judge J. O. Moncur ruled that Brennan still had legal right to the position.

Elated, Brennan set about immediately to sell a $3,000,000 block of the $30,000,000 veterans' bonds. Meanwhile, Foley plans to institute quo warranto proceedings in the supreme court to contest Brennan's right to the chairmanship.

This tiff is nothing, however, as compared to some of the attacks on Merriam's proposed tax and road consolidation programs.

The administration has counted on the Senate to back its measures. In this house Merriam has believed his Republican strength secure, even though his power in the lower house is continually threatened by Progressive Republicans.

With the long session less than a week old, a solon's bloc is forming in the Senate which is opposing ten of the governor's tax measures. With Culbert L. Olson, Los Angeles Democrat, as one of the leaders, this group has written a tax program which proposes to raise $283,500,000, $100,000,000 of it to be collected by an income tax.

This income tax figure has been cut in half since, because Democrats feared losing Progressive Republican backing. Strengthening of this bloc in the upper house means rough water ahead for the good ship budget.

Most of the revenue under the Democratic tax plan would be raised from six sources, the biggest amount coming from the sales tax, although $21,000,000 would be clipped from the present collection total. Next most lucrative source would be from an income tax, $50,000,000. Then comes a $35,000,000 severance levy, and a $33,000,000 bank and corporation franchise tax. Twenty million would be raised from state-owned or operated liquor stores, and $19,000,000 from an inheritance levy. Other sources would bring in smaller amounts.

Added Worries

To add to his worries, Governor Merriam is finding strong opposition to his road consolidation plan, one of his pet proposals. The latest power to oppose him on this issue is none other than Controller Ray L. Riley, who declared that no one political machine can treat all the people fairly.

While Riley said that he did not for a moment doubt Merriam's sincerity in desiring to save the state money, he saw grave responsibilities of some future power-grabbing administration making a veritable dictatorship out of the unified control of roads. At a recent board of supervisors meeting it was pointed out further that since state employes usually can be relied on to vote for the powers that be, if all the roads were under one head, the administration could count on some 300,000 votes from state employes and their relatives.

If this isn't enough opposition to keep the administration fighting every minute to maintain its program, Merriam brought a challenge from the Assembly recently on his Townsend Plan approval.

The governor declared himself in favor of the basic principles of the plan. The Assembly asked Merriam to appear before that body and clarify his statement.

In last year's gubernatorial campaign attempts were made to drag this issue into California politics. Dr. Townsend, then in southern California, said that the issue was non-political as far as this state is concerned. Democrats now claim that Merriam wishes the plan could have remained out of politics. Looks as if his opposition will make an issue of it, though.

The whole trouble started when a Merriam-supported proposal was submitted to the Assembly. The bill was to memorialize Congress to "incorporate in a national old age pension plan the principles and objectives of the Townsend plan."

Hearing of Merriam's stand, Dr. F. E. Townsend declared from Washington, that the governor's recent remarks on the subject was a "forerunner of many other powerful voices."

So far this Letter has told of nothing but grief for the administration. The one-sided picture that has been drawn is merely to show what Merriam is up against. Politicians say that if he is a fighter, he can successfully oppose the strong factions which have lined up against him. Mere politics, however, will avail him little.

Utilities in Spotlight

The utility companies found themselves in the limelight during the opening days of the session. The governor again hit at the delay in utility tax transfer to the counties. There is a strong faction here at the capitol who would retain the present setup, keeping the receipts on the state rolls, at least during the coming biennium until the state government is in smooth financial waters. The transfer is a major one, involving $30,900,000 a year.

It was on another issue, however, that the utilities drew most attention. The bright light of publicity was turned on salaries paid officials and contributions made to various influential organizations in California by the large utilities companies.

An Assembly vote of 47 ayes to 24 noes acceded to Assemblyman Elmer Lore's request to have an entire report of the state railroad commission printed in the lower house journal. This report revealed some interesting facts, among them being the fact that while business was conceded to be not so good as yet on the Pacific Coast generally, it was good enough for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to pay its president, A. F. Hockenbeamer, $70,273.95 for his 1934 salary. Fifty-seven officials, engineers and attorneys of that organization received salaries of more than $5000 during 1934. Salaries and expenses for these officials amounted to $613,808.55.

In addition, $21,800.95 was contributed to clubs and associations, while $8,139.81 was given to the California Taxpayers Association and $7,521 to the State Chamber of Commerce.

The Southern California Edison Company, Ltd., southern California's largest privately-owned power company, paid its president, Harry J. Bauer, $45,504. Fifty-one officials of this company received over $5000, for a total of $488,973.67, plus $13,416 in expenses. The company's contributions amounted to $62,421.62.

Similar high-bracketed salaries were registered in the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation and other large utility corporations.

As to the proposed delay in transfer of utilities' taxes from state to county coffers, Merriam has voiced his opposition, although he declared he does not intend to make it a personal issue.

"My position is that it would be impossible to bring about a delay in the transfer of the property," declared the governor, "and, therefore, I can't encourage a movement of that kind."

In the Assembly is a measure which would delay the Riley-Stewart transfer for two years. If this measure is passed, the issue must go before the people for vote.

Merriam believes this issue should be settled immediately, since counties and cities due to receive the taxes under the existing setup desire to know right away whether they can count on the money or not, so they can make up their budgets accordingly. Many counties have already included the money in their budgets.

Assemblymen Cronin and Williamson, who propose the delay, said that their measure was drawn up in order to avoid some of Merriam's proposed special taxes.

NRA, Farms, Prisons

Attempts were made at the January legislative session to rush through a series of bills as "emergency" measures. One such bill, pertaining to mortgage and trust deed moratoriums, was dramatically hurried through.

Among the measures which didn't make the grade as emergency or extra rush proposals was a group which would force the state to interfere in the regulation of private business. In other words, the bills contain a state NRA code.

Legislators have been looking over these measures since the convening of the second session. After some investigation, there seems to be a general opinion here that no such code is needed in California, at least none administered by the state.

Assemblyman Charles W. Lyon said that a code bill will be given a hearing on March 20. He added:

"With general economic recovery progressing as rapidly as it is, I do not believe business regulation through state codes is necessary."

Other legislators have taken a similar stand, although all say they will be glad to be present at the hearing, if only as a matter of legislative courtesy.

It is admitted by most politicans that the reason they do not like the bill is due to the partial failure of the federal NRA.

The Assembly agriculture and livestock committee has been busy working over the sheaf of bills pertaining to various phases of California farm life. The committee gave a do pass recommendation to AB 36, which is aimed at unscrupulous canners and other processors who buy farm products at an agreed price, and who, after receiving the goods, fail to make payment.

Secretary W. P. Wing of the California Wool Growers Association has asked the committee to include meat slaughterers in this measure, citing many instances where sheep men have failed to receive payment.

The committee also reported favorably on AB 367, which would make California quarantine provisions applicable to produce shipments which come into this state in violation of the federal quarantine laws, and on AB 432, which would appropriate $25,000 for spray residue control work on pears and other fruits.

March 28 has been fixed by the committee as the hearing date on AB 915 and 957, covering amendments to the state prorate act.

Senator Charles Reindollar, Marin County, chairman of the Senate prisons committee, has returned from his inspection trip of Folsom Prison, optimistic over conditions he found prevailing there.

"We found conditions excellent," he said. When questioned about overcrowding, he added, "Overcrowding will not be alleviated unless we are able to establish a prison farm to take care of some of the inmates."

Legislators seem to favor establishing such farms or prison road camps rather than expecting to house prison overflows in new institutions.

FRENCH CORRAL, Mar. 11.—A hail storm battered French Corral and its surrounding area Thursday but no damage was done. The pellets bounced off the porch into the yard; bounced off the roof into the well; bounced off the road into the grass and bounced off my head when I went over to the store for the mail. and still no damage done.

When I woke up the next morning the hail had turned to snow and the whole world was a dazzling white. The fire-break up the side of the mountain was a wide white ribbon; the trees were living statues done in pure white marble; the red brick buildings were roofed with glistening white; the kids in red and white caps and jackets made snow men out on the vacant lots and French Corral resembled a very gaudy Christmas card come to life.

There is great interest each year in the White House to see who sees the first robin. President Roosevelt won the honors this season and said that spring had arrived in Washington, D. C. I wish he could have seen for a few moments, what I saw this morning. We sprinkled corn bread crumbs on the snow and dozens of red-breasted robins sped in crimson contrast across the glaring white. And the blue birds dipped and swirled and twittered from fence post to roof and made the whole scene seem too vivid and fantastic to be real. All of which brings back an unfilled desire for a fur coat.

And speaking of pelts probably few people today know that the original name of the state of Tennessee was Franklin, or that in 1788 the salaries of the officers of this commonwealth were paid in pelts, but the following is a correct copy of the law:

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Franklin, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, That from and after the first day of January, 1788, the salaries of this common wealth be as follows, to-witt:

"His Excellency, the Governor, per annum, one hundred deerskins.

"County Clerk, three hundred beaverskins.

"Clerk of the House of Commons, two hundred racoonskins.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Williams and children motored to Placerville Sunday for a visit with Mr, Williams sister, Mrs. George Steppe, who is quite ill.

"KISSING BUG" IS REAL MENACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 11.—The definite tendency of the dread Chagas' disease, or American trypanosomiasis, toward a northern migration from its tropical retreats has occasioned an intensive study on the part of the Hooper Foundation of the University of California Medical School to determine the possibility of the disease becoming prevalent in California. It has been determined that the blood-sucking insect vector, commonly known as the "kissing-bug" and technically known as Triatoma protracta, abounds in California and several other western states. This insect belongs to the same genus as those which are responible for spreading the diease in South and Central America, and in fact, investigations have shown that this insect, in a certain region of California, is infected with the causative organism of Chagas' disease. However, labratory tests indicate that the disease in California is of a very mild type, and so far as is known it exists only in the "kissing bug" and in the blood of wood rats in whose nests the bugs are found.

American trypanosomiasis, in human cases, is nearly always fatal, especially in young children. It is a common disease in Brazil and has now spread to Panama and Honduras where it is being vigorously attacked. Due to the many swift agencies of transportation between this country and the tropics, and the presence here of a number of host animals, such as the wood rat and the opossum, the possibility of an invasion is being closely watched.

A number of living specimens of the Brazilian Triatoma were brought here by Dr. Hamilton H. Anderson, assistant clinical professor of pharmaccology, and are being used in labratory experiments by Dr. Fae Donat Wood, of the Pacific Institute of Tropical Medicine. The parasites carried by the imported insects retained all of their original virulence but the triatomes themselves soon died off, perhaps due to the unfavorable temperate climate. It is quite conceivable that accidentally imported triatomes, although unable to establish themselves in this country, might survive long enough to spread the disease to man or native mammals, and thence to our native species of Triatoma.

The disease in its virulent stage, may last for months or years, and thus far has resisted all known forms of treatment. The causative organism of the disease is related to that which produces African sleeping sickness, spread by the bite of the tsetse fly, but remedies effective in the African disease, have proved utterly useless. In Chagras' disease the coma or sleeping stage does not often occur, the patients usually showing heart.

A TRAIN LOAD OF MAYTAG WASHERS

This is the first time since 1928 that the MAYTAG WASHER CO. has sold a solid train load of washers to any one state. Twenty seven freight cars loaded only with Maytag Washers arrived in California a day or two ago, and one of these cars has just been received by the GRASS VALLEY ELECTRIC CO., 120 East Main Street, Grass Valley.

In 1928, the lowest price for a MAYTAG was $175.00, now you can buy, for a limited time only, a genuine MAYTAG for as low as $69.50.

Out of the 75 washers that arrived in this car there are only a few of the low priced MAYTAGS. MORE MAYTAG WASHERS ARE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER MAKES COMBINED.

Just the best kind of a time has been planned for those attending the annual St. Patrick's Ball tonight which is given under the auspices of St. Canice Catholic Church, at Armory Hall tonight. It is only every other year that the ball is held in Nevada City. Thomas Davies, supervisor of the third district of Sierra county, who resides at Alleghany has been spending a few days in Nevada Cty with his daughters, Misses Amy and Stella Davies.
